Honored to attend @RepJeffries powerful State of the District Address which touched on important issues like affordable housing, at-risk youth, jobs and immigration. The people of the 8th congressional district are incredibly fortunate to have you as their representative!

There must be zero tolerance for illegal hotels. In addition to depleting our housing stock, illegal hotels put lives at risk by flouting the basic fire and safety regulations that apply to hotels.

Trevon Bosley's brother was shot and killed as he left church in Chicago.

I will never be afraid to say that #BlackLivesMatter. And gun violence destroys black lives every day.

We fight for these young people. We fight for change.

Today I was at @LaGuardiaCC to speak at the opening of "The Lavender Line: Coming Out in Queens," an exhibition which highlights the last 25 years of LGBTQ activism in Queens.

I was proud to be there because this exhibition is a celebration of who we are in the LGBTQ community.

Low-income New Yorkers shouldn't have to choose between paying for the MetroCard they need to get to work and buying food for their families.

We need #FairFares.

Those who make a whopping 26k a year pay rent and support a family will subsidize others. Makes perfect sense to this little dancing socialist.

With the #MeToo and the Time's Up movements, we have seen millions of women across the world raise their voice to say "enough is enough."

The beginning of the end of women having to say #MeToo starts with New York City

All New Yorkers are entitled to a safe, respectful workplace, and this package of legislation sends a strong message to public and private employers that there is no place for sexual harassment in our City.

I'm so proud of this package.

"The @NYCCouncil passed a package of bills this week aimed at addressing sexual harassment at work -- one of the strongest legislative responses yet to a national conversation about misconduct in the workplace."

So what is your plan to make the @NYCTSubway fares more affordable? I'll forget more affordable if you can get MTA to run a clean environment and on time busses and trains.

The Mayor told @BrianLehrer he doesn't back #FairFares because he doesn't want to fund the MTA.

Newsflash — this isn't about the MTA! It's about 800k NYers who can't afford the subways. The Mayor backed Paid Sick and #FightFor15 – why not this?

Here is my joint statement with Finance Chair @Dromm25 and Chair of the Subcommittee on Capital Budget @Vanessalgibson on the FY 2019 budget.

THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

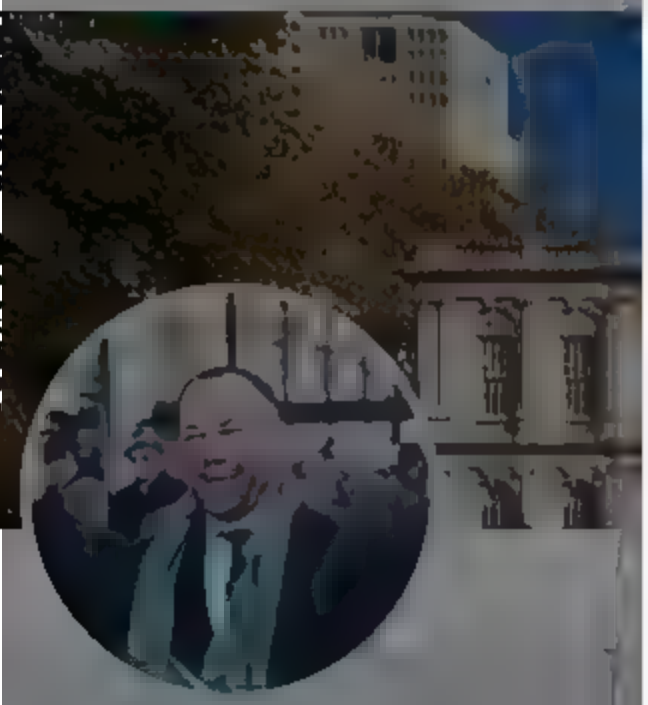
April 26, 2018

JOINT STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON, FINANCE CHAIR DANIEL DROMM AND CHAIR OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON CAPITAL BUDGET VANESSA GIBSON ON FY 2019 BUDGET

"Though we are disappointed that the Mayor's proposed budget does not address all the priorities laid out by the City Council, we are encouraged by the close to $1 billion in additional revenue expected in FY18. When combined with the efficiencies and savings the Council has already found in our FY19 budget response, this revenue has the potential to go a long way towards our goals of strengthening the social safety net, fighting for the middle class, and being responsible with taxpayer money. The administration should use this additional revenue to institute Fair Fares to help our most vulnerable neighbors, fund a $400 property tax rebate for middle class homeowners, and put away $500 million in reserves to strengthen our financial position moving forward and increase our ability to weather future shocks.

In addition, we are glad the administration has reduced excess appropriations and redistributed them over a longer period of time as requested by the Council for capital funding.

The Council will continue to advocate for our priorities throughout budget negotiations and we plan to do so in a collaborative and transparent budget process.



With the tax rebate and Fair Fares, we have the opportunity to make life better for New Yorkers who desperately need a break, and the reserves will undoubtedly help us in the future. We urge the administration to fund the Council's priorities for the good of our neighbors and our city."

Homelessness is a dire crisis in NYC. There are homeless people everywhere, and it's heartbreaking.

We need more supportive housing as soon as possible. Supportive housing is the most successful existing model for helping to end chronic homelessness.

.@TheRevAl Sharpton and I pushed for this.

Thank you for listening, @NYCMayor de Blasio.

Did you push the fat envelope full of unmarked large bills into Sharpton's hand @coreyjnyc, or does @NYCFinance just wire the backsheesh to Sharpton's offshore banks like @NBCUniversal does? #TaxCheat #CrownHeightsRiots #Charlatan

There was a crash in Chelsea and people in the community are asking if the deli owner & staff are safe. They were not among the injured. We spoke to the owner and will work to help them get back up & running!

I was driving around yesterday and a lot of taxi didn't use their turn signal going in to my lane smh Usually a good amount does use it. But yesterday barely any taxi was using their turn signal. I started driving at 8PM to 10:30PM

I live in the neighborhood and walk by here every day Cars come flying across 8th Avenue all the time and often run red lights The neighborhood need more speed bumps to slow down traffic and we need regular traffic enforcement

We won't be the fairest big city in America until we have #FairFares.

Council Members @CarlinaRivera and @KeithPowersNYC took to the streets to talk about this program that would allow low-income New Yorkers to buy 1/2 price MetroCards.

I hit the streets this morning to talk to New Yorkers about #FairFares.

Low-income New Yorkers need our help, and I won't stop fighting to make sure we include this program in our city's budget.

Today is Harvey Milk Day.

Harvey was the first openly gay person elected to public office in California, and was assassinated in 1978.

Rest in power, Harvey. Thank you for helping to forge a path for LGBTQ people like me.

#FairFares would allow adult New Yorkers at or below the federal poverty line to purchase MetroCards at a discount price.

I believe access to public transit is an economic necessity for all New Yorkers.

It sickens me that we are still fighting these battles against hate, especially during Pride Month, but we will never give up and we will never stop moving forward towards equality.

It sickens us that the only LGBT candidate in the mayoral election last year got kicked out of the debates (after being qualified by the @nycoffb) without explanation, and you've done NOTHING about it.

Moving away from the single admissions test is an important first step towards specialized high schools that look like NYC. I applaud Mayor de Blasio for his leadership!

I was honored to be at the @NYPDnews Promotional Ceremony with @DRichards13 @Vanessalgibson @NYPDONeill to see Frank Vega of my security detail make Detective First Grade. So proud of Frank and happy for his family. Congrats to all of today's NYPD promotees!

I hit the streets this morning to talk to New Yorkers about #FairFares.

Low-income New Yorkers need our help, and I won't stop fighting to make sure we include this program in our city's budget.

I hit the streets this morning to talk to New Yorkers about #FairFares.

Low-income New Yorkers need our help, and I won't stop fighting to make sure we include this program in our city's budget.

I often think of the New Yorkers the next budget will help.

Rebecca Kostyuchenko testified at the Council about her daughter, who she would literally carry up steps into her neighborhood school so she could go there.

We just secured $150 million to improve school accessibility.

The @NYCCouncil made #FairFares a priority in this budget, and we achieved it.

The program will provide half-price MetroCards to nearly 800,000 low-income New Yorkers.

This will literally open turnstiles and doors for the neediest New Yorkers.

DISGUSTING. Michael Grimm should be ashamed of himself.

Spectrum News NY1 @NY1

Michael Grimm says if people went to a nursery after a mother leaves her child there they would hear the "same exact things" as kids crying after being separated from their parents at the border

. @uber is misleading the public about a legislative proposal the @NYCCouncil is considering. Here's what you need to know:

THE NEW YORK CITY COUNCIL

UBER vs REALITY

Uber is misleading the public about a legislative proposal the Council is considering. Here's what you need to know:

▶ UBER SAYS: Riders will have to pay substantially higher prices

FACT: These bills don't hike prices! They do call for a minimum pay for drivers because they DESERVE it. A 2018 TLC-ordered study found that 90% of NYC's app-based drivers are immigrants, 46% have incomes so low they qualify for Medicaid and 18 percent qualify for supplemental nutrition assistance. Uber is valued at over $70 billion. They don't need to hike fares to pay their drivers better.

▶ UBER SAYS: Wait times will increase throughout the city

FACT: Congestion is clogging our streets so badly, your for-hire-vehicle is barely moving. App-based service growth added 365 million additional miles of driving to city streets from 2016 to 2017 alone and a total of 976 million miles of driving since 2013. These bills will fight congestion and protect the environment!

▶ Getting an Uber outside of Manhattan could become more difficult

Today the @NYCCouncil honored 22-year-old NYPD Officer Osvaldo Nuñez for saving the life of an infant in Jackson Heights with quick thinking and delicately-delivered emergency CPR. And at that time he was just one month out of police academy! Thank you Osvaldo.

Making time to read is so important, especially during #NationalBookMonth. I recently finished Bell Hooks' All About Love: New Visions and I loved it! Want to give it a try or find another you'll love? Visit @NYPL @QueensLibrary @BKLYNlibrary.

October is national Adopt a Shelter Dog Month. We have hundreds of dogs in shelters in the City so if you're considering getting a new furry friend just remember, there are tons of loving dogs just waiting to find their fur-ever homes. I adopted my cat Mousse and he is amazing!

As someone who rides the subway, I know it needs a lot of work.

The best way to fund the major investments that our subway needs is congestion pricing, and I laid out the case for it this morning.

The Council is prepared to act on this. Read more here:

NYC needs to send a message that violence and bigotry are not welcome anywhere in America and certainly not in the five boroughs. The NYPD must conduct a thorough investigation of what happened last night and bring the perpetrators of violence to justice.

The NYPD is reviewing video & other evidence from last night to determine if other crimes were committed & if so, identify those perps and make arrests as warranted. Anyone w info/video pls contact @NYPDnews 1-800-577-TIPS.

There is no tolerance for violence anywhere in NYC.

Thrilled to celebrate @NYCCouncil funding for adult literacy programs with @NYCCouncil38 @Dromm25 at @cpc_nyc today. New York was built by immigrants from all over the world. As an immigrant town, it is vital that we support our immigrant communities.

Wet ballots - caused by people waiting in the rain - are causing scanners to malfunction at my poll site (208 W 13). All scanners are down except one.

This is a predictable problem we MUST fix and plan for next time! @BOENYC

WA state has a mail in system that works great. Vote in your jammies when it's convenient and postage is paid. There are also drop boxes (like mail boxes). Less costly than what NYC does. Washington mails a ballot to every registered voter a few weeks before the election.

Because ballots are mailed, all registered voters can be accounted for and get treated fairly. If for some reason you don't get your ballot in the mail, you have plenty of time to request one. It really helps older or disabled voters, those who can't get off work, or don't drive

Voting should not be this difficult. @BOENYC has had all year to prepare for this day. Bad weather and high turnout are no excuse when we have forecasts for both. Michael Ryan needs to resign and we need a full top to bottom review of what went wrong today.

WA state has a mail in system that works great. Vote in your jammies when it's convenient and postage is paid. There are also drop boxes (like mail boxes). Less costly than what NYC does. Washington mails a ballot to every registered voter a few weeks before the election.

It works! And you can check online to confirm that your ballot was counted

Because ballots are mailed, all registered voters can be accounted for and get treated fairly. If for some reason you don't get your ballot in the mail, you have plenty of time to request one. It really helps older or disabled voters, those who can't get off work, or don't drive

WA state has a mail in system that works great. Vote in your jammies when it's convenient and postage is paid. There are also drop boxes (like mail boxes). Less costly than what NYC does. Washington mails a ballot to every registered voter a few weeks before the election.

Because ballots are mailed, all registered voters can be accounted for and get treated fairly. If for some reason you don't get your ballot in the mail, you have plenty of time to request one. It really helps older or disabled voters, those who can't get off work, or don't drive

Because ballots are mailed, all registered voters can be accounted for and get treated fairly. If for some reason you don't get your ballot in the mail, you have plenty of time to request one. It really helps older or disabled voters, those who can't get off work, or don't drive

Voting should not be this difficult. @BOENYC has had all year to prepare for this day. Bad weather and high turnout are no excuse when we have forecasts for both. Michael Ryan needs to resign and we need a full top to bottom review of what went wrong today.

WA state has a mail in system that works great. Vote in your jammies when it's convenient and postage is paid. There are also drop boxes (like mail boxes). Less costly than what NYC does. Washington mails a ballot to every registered voter a few weeks before the election.

Disappointed to hear scanners are broken all over NYC, making it difficult for people (including lots of new voters) to vote. We need Albany to pass early voting/other reforms ASAP in 2019 and the @BOENYC to get its act together. New Yorkers shouldn't have to deal with this.

NEW YORK. If you are at a poll site where this occurs, know that you are ALLOWED to cast your ballot in the "emergency slot" for ballots and your vote will be counted. Tell the poll worker you want to put your ballot in the emergency slot else, call 1-855-VOTE-4-NY

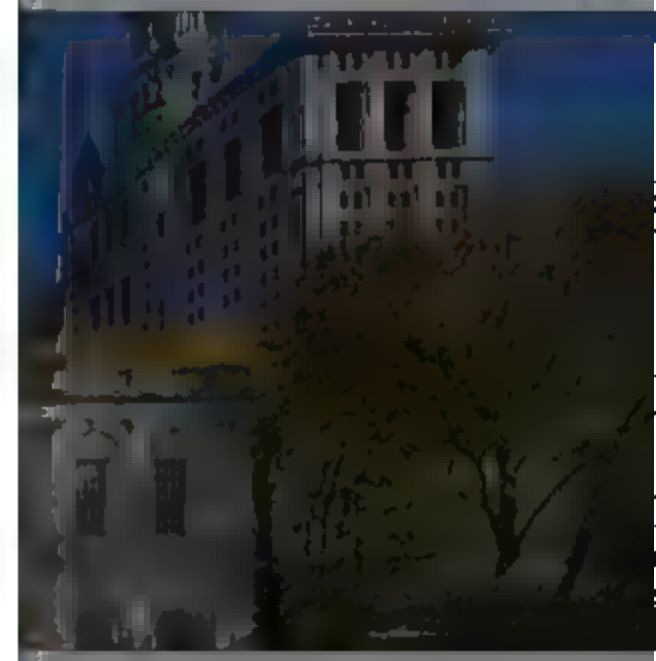
I am heartbroken by yet another racist attack in our beautiful city. The African Burial Ground is a sacred space and an important part of our American history. Unfortunately, our history does include hatred and bigotry. We must acknowledge that if we want to move forward. Times have changed, but – as this vandalism clearly shows – we still have much work to do.

Make no mistake, we will do it.



I will always speak out against acts of racism and bigotry, and I know my colleagues at the Council will as well. I'd like to thank Council Members Laurie Cumbo and Jumaane Williams for organizing this event today, as well as Council Members Daneek Miller and Ydanis Rodriguez, the co-chairs of the Council's Black Latino/a & Asian Caucus. I also want to thank African Burial Ground architect Rodney Leon for joining us today to speak out against the desecration.

The vandals who disrespected this site were full of hate, but they will not win. We are united against hate.

My statement on @amazon choosing Long Island City as the site for their HQ2.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council – which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind – extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone – Chair of our Economic Development Committee – to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

Wet ballots - caused by people waiting in the rain - are causing scanners to malfunction at my poll site (208 W 13). All scanners are down except one.

What happened to #JazmineHeadley is unacceptable.

In 2 minutes and 26 seconds of video, we saw how our system criminalizes poverty, disproportionately punishes petty behavior and irresponsibly separates parents from children.

THREAD: Some of the questions I asked Amazon executives this morning at the #AmazonAnswersNYC hearing.

1. “Do you think it’s being a good neighbor to circumvent NYC’s public land use process?”

Today was the just the beginning. The @NYCCouncil will hold more public hearings with testimony and questions from New Yorkers, and I expect Amazon executives to show up. The people must be heard. #AmazonAnswersNYC

This is political gamesmanship at its most pernicious. New Yorkers seeking employment, LIC restaurants, coffee shops, and many others stand to benefit a great deal from this. #AmazonAnswersNYC #AmazonHQ2

The only transportation piece of this Amazon NYC project I've seen involves a helipad. I'm serious. This is like something out of @TheOnion.

So yes, Jeff Bezos' commute is all set. What about the rest of the New Yorkers crammed into the subways every day? #AmazonAnswersNYC

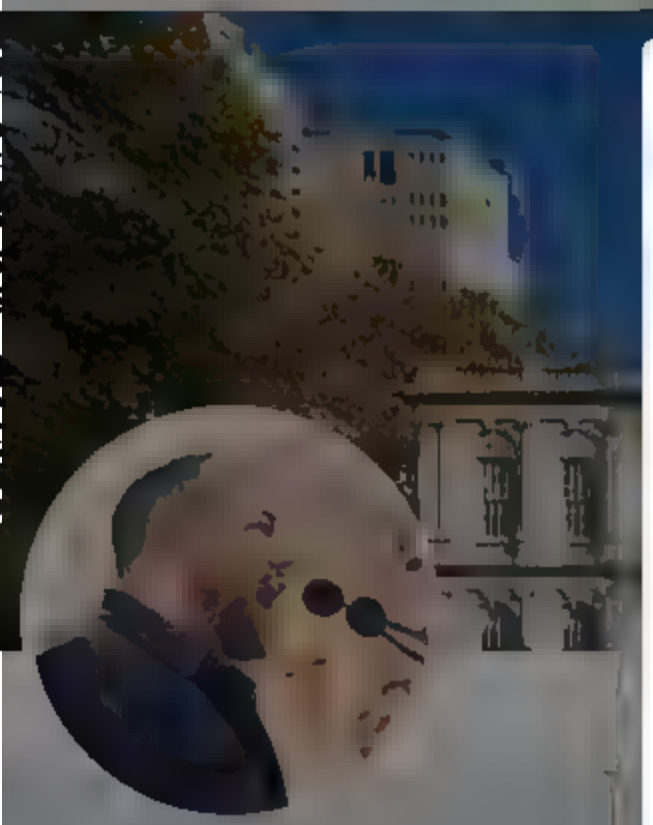
People in Queens already know the answer: we're the fastest growing boro with the fastest growing neighborhood in the country. We need entire new transit routes. And we're getting nothing. Nothing. Amazon is just fuel on top of a four alarm blaze currently being ignored.

1 5 18

Shops by Bike @bellevelongbike · 9h



We're getting worse than nothing. We're getting an air train to nowhere and a light rail for those closest to the city. The money is being spent, just not in any way that will benefit the people of Queens living or working in the many transit deserts

Good morning. I am Corey Johnson, Speaker of [redacted] York City Council. I want to thank everyone [redacted] ing here today for this very important hearing, wi[redacted] cial shout out to my friend and colleague Cou[redacted] mber Paul Vallone, the Chair of the Econo[redacted] velopment Committee. Thank you Paul for [redacted] dership and for calling this hearing so quickly.

I'd also like to acknowledge Council Member Jim[redacted] Bramer, who has been an outspoken advocate for[redacted] stituents ever since the details of this deal came[redacted] t.

The people of Long Island City, Astoria, Sunnys[redacted] Woodside will be the first ones to see the impac[redacted] project for which they had zero input – and they h[redacted] trong leader looking out for their needs in Cou[redacted] mber Van Bramer.

Thank you Jimmy.

So happy I got to announce $3.8 Million in funding for LGBTQ initiatives last week with my colleague @DROMM25. Everyone should feel comfortable with who they are and I am proud to support that.

The lack of accessibility in our subways is literally killing people. I am heartbroken by this tragedy, and am keeping this family in my thoughts. NYC must do more for families and the disabled.

The lack of accessibility in our subways is literally killing people. I am heartbroken by this tragedy, and am keeping this family in my thoughts. NYC must do more for families and the disabled.

Enough.

It's time for a pied-a-terre tax. We should tax luxury non-primary residences, like this one likely will be.

Enough.

It's time for a pied-a-terre tax. We should tax luxury non-primary residences, like this one likely will be.

My statement on @amazon choosing Long Island City as the site for their HQ2.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council, which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind, extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone, Chair of our Economic Development Committee, to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

My statement on @amazon choosing Long Island City as the site for their HQ2.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council, which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind, extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone, Chair of our Economic Development Committee, to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

Re: New York City's Site Selection for Amazon HQ2

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council, which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind, extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone, Chair of our Economic Development Committee, to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

Re: New York City's Site Selection for Amazon HQ2

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council, which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind, extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone, Chair of our Economic Development Committee, to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council – which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind – extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone – Chair of our Economic Development Committee – to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

Here are my final remarks from my State of the City speech yesterday. Thank you to everyone who showed up, tuned in and has been speaking out.

Let's go.

I think before we ask if we should, we need to ask if we can. Is it a competency of the city to manage its own infrastructure? If not, why not? Can that be overcome? What does the management structure of other successful systems looks like? Could that model be transferred here?

I agree with @nicolegelinas: "It takes a fresh approach to solve a stale problem."

We need municipal control of our subways and buses.

Municipal control of our transit and creating a master plan for our streets is a social justice issue. It's an economic justice issue. Low-income and vulnerable New Yorkers are most affected by failing transit.

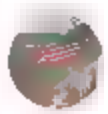
Today I announced we'd be releasing a detailed plan about how NYC can implement municipal control and take ownership of our subways and buses.



Here it is: "Let's Go: The Case for Municipal Control and a Comprehensive Transit Vision For All 5 Boroughs"

My Master Plan legislation would require:

- 50 miles of protected bike lanes – real, protected bike lanes, not a green stripe - every year.
- A fully connected bike network covering the city by 2030.
- New York City to dramatically increase the amount of pedestrian space.

For all that, we get four seats on a 17 member board and virtually nothing to say about where our billions go. Is that fair?

#MunicipalControl means saying goodbye to the MTA. We'll have a new system with a new name. I'm calling it Big Apple Transit. BAT for short. Accountability will fall squarely on one person - the Mayor of New York City.

Those who perished in the Triangle Shirtwaist fire were victims of a system that failed them. But they didn't die in vain. The tragedy helped to spur the rise of labor unions. And we owe it to all who lost their lives to continue to fight for workers.

Awful. I saw major tree limbs down along with many of the smaller trees bent over under the weight of the snow in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

My thoughts are with the displaced residents and those were injured in this severe fire in Sunset Park. I want to also thank the incredibly brave @FDNY firefighters who fought this blaze, 19 of whom were injured.

Yesterday 50 families in Sunset Park were displaced by a devastating 6-alarm fire. Many homes have been completely destroyed and the building is likely to be uninhabitable for the foreseeable future.

Please donate generously to support them.

BREAKING: The @NYCCouncil just passed bills prohibiting marijuana testing being required as part of the hiring process in New York City, and banning the City from requiring marijuana testing for people on probation. Thank you @JumaaneWilliams & @DRichards13 for your leadership.

So if one drinks alcohol, does it mean they will work while drunk? No

It is highly stigmatizing to suggest ppl who smoke weed are more irresponsible than those who drink. The idea is simply not true and has contributed to unfair/biased incarceration. do better

We are not closing Rikers because it is easy; we are doing it because it is hard—and absolutely necessary for a justice system that is worthy of our city.

We need to decarcerate NYC and not replace rikers with other jails. If you build it you will fill it. Stop oppressing people of color and get on the right side of history #NoNewJailsNYC

You're closing it bc Riker's Island is worth a lot of capital to developers. You're not doing it because it's "hard" or "the right thing to do". A justice system worthy of NYC wouldn't have 8 judicial seats empty while people waste away awaiting trial. #noboroughbasedjailnyc

Shootings and murder are on the rise due to your progressive policies. Criminals feel comfortable carrying and using guns because you take the side of criminals. Lawlessness is caused by decriminalizing things like marijuana poss and fare beating. Little crimes become big crimes

My statement on @amazon choosing Long Island City as the site for their HQ2.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER COREY JOHNSON

"Amazon is one of the richest companies in the world, but you can't put a price on community input, which has been missing throughout this entire process. I find that lack of engagement and the fact that the negotiations excluded the City Council – which is elected by New Yorkers to guide land use projects with communities in mind – extremely troubling. I also don't understand why a company as rich as Amazon would need nearly $2 billion in public money for its expansion plans at a time when New York desperately needs money for affordable housing, transportation, infrastructure and education. I will always advocate for economic development and jobs in New York, but when the process is done behind closed doors, with zero community input and nearly $2 billion in subsidies to a global behemoth, I am going to be skeptical. I have not been briefed on this plan, so I will withhold full judgement until I am. I look forward to reviewing the full details of the package when available with Council Member Van Bramer and Council Member Vallone – Chair of our Economic Development Committee – to determine whether this proposal is in the best interests of the City. For now, all I can say is I am very concerned.

Heartbreaking news this morning out of Harlem. Huge fire in the Frederick E. Samuel Apartments on Seventh Avenue has left six people dead - including 4 children. This is a tragedy for our city. I pray they Rest In Peace.

Typically, we try to get the budget adopted by the first week of June. I doubt that's possible this year. This needs to be done the right way.

This piece is a good recap of where we are currently in this year's City budget negotiation.

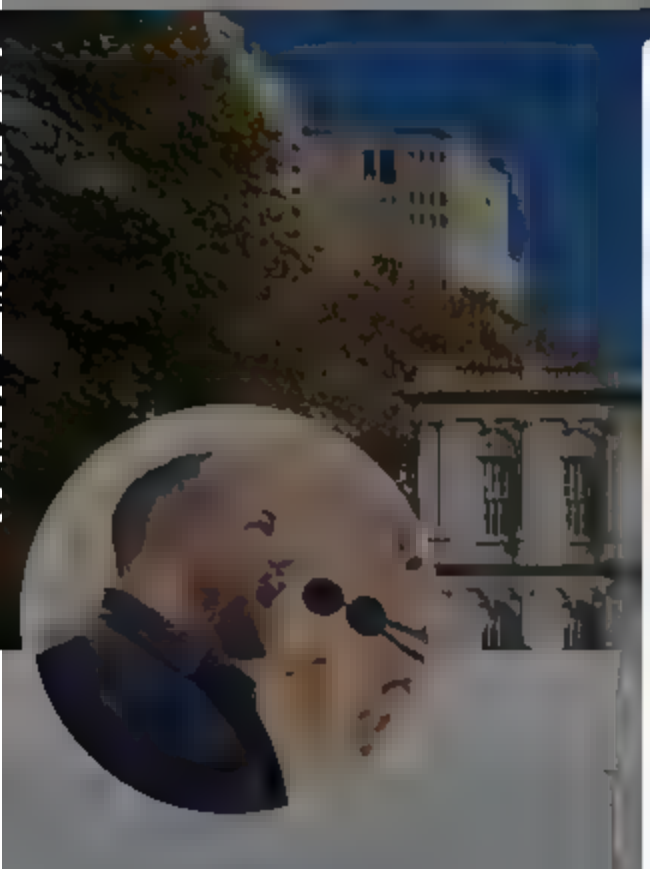
I'm in awe of our young people. Thank you for your activism and keeping the critical issue of school integration front and center. @TeensTakeCharge



Community Service Society of New York @CSSNYorg
Students, parents, and advocates from all over the city are here with @teenstakecharge calling on NYC high schools to #IntegrateNOW. Right now they're taking a few minutes of silence to reflect on racial segregation that's persisted in our educatio

NYC Board of Ed spends $26 thousand a year on each student. A lot more than any other city in the country. Yet way too many can't read or write. Maybe you should focus on this issue instead

Disappointed to hear scanners are broken all over NYC, making it difficult for people (including lots of new voters) to vote. We need Albany to pass early voting/other reforms ASAP in 2019 and the @BOENYC to get its act together. New Yorkers shouldn't have to deal with this.

My statement on Amazon

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER AND ACTING PUBLIC ADVOCATE COREY JOHNSON

Re: Amazon's Decision to Cancel Move to New York City

"I look forward to working with companies that understand that if you're willing to engage with New Yorkers and work through challenging issues New York City is the world's best place to do business. I hope this is the start of a conversation about vulture capitalism and where our tax dollars are best spent. I know I'd choose mass transit over helipads any day."

You just turned away 25K jobs. Let me reiterate. You just turned away 25K jobs. I don't think I've ever seen some one so happy to sabotage their own economy.

We believe in a New York where no one is targeted simply because of who they are - Muslim New Yorkers, immigrants, the undocumented, African Americans, Jewish New Yorkers, transgender New Yorkers. We must reject hate in all its forms and stand united against bigotry and racism.

Thx @JimmyVanBramer & @Dromm25 for bringing Drag Queen Story Hour to @QPLNYC in #JacksonHeights. It is so important we teach our children about diversity and acceptance early on.

@activistmommy this makes my blood boil. Children should not be exposed to this. They keep sneaking it in without parental consent. Praying #cropFailure for this perversion. Public funds and facilities should not be used for this, especially with convicted pedophiles

I am alarmed at how few people are talking about the most important case directly addressing LGBTQ people ever to reach the United States Supreme Court set to be argued on October 8. Did you even know it was happening?

Yes and no, right? Nothing they decide will impact existing state and local protections or prevent a Democratic Congress from passing the Equality Act.

Voting should not be this difficult. @BOENYC has had all year to prepare for this day. Bad weather and high turnout are no excuse when we have forecasts for both. Michael Ryan needs to resign and we need a full top to bottom review of what went wrong today.

WA state has a mail in system that works great. Vote in your jammies when it's convenient and postage is paid. There are also drop boxes (like mail boxes). Less costly than what NYC does. Washington mails a ballot to every registered voter a few weeks before the election

2 2 30

TJ Is Disgruntled @TJWorried · 6 Nov 2018

It works! And you can check online to confirm that your ballot was counted.

1 15

Msbmoran @Msbmoran · 6 Nov 2018

Because ballots are mailed, all registered voters can be accounted for and get treated fairly. If for some reason you don't get your ballot in the mail, you have plenty of time to request one. It really helps older or disabled voters, those who can't get off work, or don't drive

California's vote by mail is a choice (you can go to the polling station instead),

NYC could be doing a much better job of making sure all New Yorkers have access to personalized, coordinated, culturally competent healthcare. Proud to introduce legislation with @CarlinaRivera and @MarkLevineNYC to help get us there.

Our thoughts are with Texas as they grapple with another incident of gun violence. We must do more to address this epidemic.

Hi Corey. Lease help clean up Chelsea on 8th Avenue. It's become a hotbed of assaults and crime. We never see police on the street and crime seems to be on the rise. Thank you

We need to do everything possible to ensure the opportunity zones program in New York actually helps vulnerable New Yorkers - not just the rich and politically connected. (1/2)

I wrote an op-ed n @GothamGazette earlier this summer on how to fix the problems with opportunity zones. The risks are obvious. We need transparency and accountab ty if this is going to work. (2/2)

This is also the first Labor Day without Hector Figueroa, a champion for all laborers. Today we remember his legacy & continue his life's work by standing up for workers everywhere. Hector, we miss you & we will do the best we can to fulfill your mission on behalf of workers. 2/

Thanks to all who came out to celebrate West Indian heritage.

FDNY has informed my office of a fire at Fairfield Inn and Suites on 40th St, between 8th and 9th avenue. Thankfully, no injuries are reported at this time and the fire has been contained. West 40th St between 8th Avenue and 9th Avenue is temporarily closed to vehicular traffic.
